Art Unit: 2811

1. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 11, line 13, the phrase "the ferroelectric film is like $\text{SrBi}_2\text{Ta}_2\text{O}_9$ " is unclear whether the ferroelectric film is made of $\text{SrBi}_2\text{Ta}_2\text{O}_9$ or the compound of $\text{SrBi}_2\text{Ta}_2\text{O}_9$.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 and 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanaya et al.

In regards to claims 1 and 11, Kanaya et al. disclose a semiconductor device in fig. 48. It comprising: a lower electrode [410A] formed on a substrate [301]; a capacitive insulating film [412A] formed out of a ferroelectric film on the lower electrode; an upper electrode [414A] formed on the capacitive insulating film [412A]; a contact layer [402] formed on the upper electrode so as not to contact with the capacitive insulating film [412A]; an insulating film [306b] formed to cover the lower electrode [410A], the capacitive insulating film [412A], the upper electrode [414A] and the contact layer [402]; a contact hole passing through the insulating film [306b] and the contact layer [402] to reach the upper electrode [414A]; and an interconnect [307], which is defined on a part of the insulating film [306b], provided at least in the contact hole and connected to the upper electrode [414A], wherein the ferroelectric film includes $\text{SrBi}_2\text{Ta}_2\text{O}_9$ (SBT) (col.

22, lines 1-6), and wherein the contact layer [402] is a single-layer film being made of a metal oxide (titanium oxide) (col. 18, lines 1-5, claims 1, 3 and 4 of Kanaya et al.).

Kanaya et al. differ from the claimed invention by not showing the interconnect is made of metal. It would have been obvious for the interconnect is made of metal, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

In regards to claims 10 and 12, Kanaya et al. further disclose the upper electrode [414A] contains Pt (platinum) (col. 19, line 33), and wherein the metal oxide film is made of an oxide of Ti (titanium).

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
